I have watched the proceedings of the Microsoft trial for years.
Its obvious to myself and many others in the computer industry that Microsoft just bullies its way around, or uses stall tactics to get it's way.

Microsoft has made a laughing stock out of the government and the legal system. The legal system has no balls.
The message to everyone is if you have enough money and lawyers you can do what you want.

I personally want to see Microsoft held accountable for their wrongdoing and suffer the consequences.
Thankfully the attempt to contribute their software on the schools was thwarted.

Don't let this case keep dragging on, give Microsoft their medicine.
